

Second Chance Shoes

What do you do when your child has outgrown a pair of sneakers? How about giving those shoes a second chance?

As we all know, exercise is an important part of everyday life. Studies have shown that children from lower-income families do not get enough exercise because sometimes they lack the funds to buy proper footwear.

My name is Thor and I am working on my Girl Scout Gold Award by partnering with a non-profit organization, EcoSneaker, to collect and repurpose athletic shoes. Shoes that are in good condition get distributed to children in need. Others get recycled and used to make playground mulch and basketball surfaces.

I am asking you to help me by donating any sneakers that you or your children no longer use. Let's give children a chance to participate and love a sport, just like we do.
